

ALEXANDRIA
FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 25.

THE FOLLOWING announcement is made in the Washington newspapers: "The fourth auditor, Hon. John R. Lynch, will leave Saturday evening to take part in the Ohio campaign." The man referred to is a negro. He holds an important and responsible position in the Treasury Department at Washington, has white men and women under him, and draws a lucrative salary. His predecessor was General Shelby of Alabama, who was removed in order to make a place for him. How long would General Shelby have been allowed to retain his office during Mr. Cleveland's administration if he had left it and gone to Alabama to take part in a political campaign in that State? But the present, as its democratic predecessor was, is a professed civil service reform administration.

PATTERSON POST, G. A. R., has unanimously passed a resolution against the "sacred" of "rebel" monuments in the "sacred precincts" of Gettysburg, and have entered "their solemn protest against this sacrilege and most emphatically denounce any such intrusion upon sacred soil, and ask that the Gettysburg battle field association cause the said rebel monument to be removed and express orders given that no more of that nature be erected." The hearts of the men who passed this resolution and of all who agree with them go out in responsive sympathy with the Mahone cause in Virginia, and with the man whose one single vote prevented the repeal of the statute prohibiting "rebels" from holding commissions in the U. S. army.

POOR old Gen. Longstreet! He swayed his principles and his kith and kin for an office. He prospered for a time, but at last has come to grief. He tried first for a Cabinet place under the present administration, and failed; then for an important foreign appointment, and failed. He then reduced his claim to that of a U. S. marshalship in his own State; but even that has been denied him, and been given to a northern man who came South after the war, and who was recently burned in effigy at Atlanta for endorsing the appointment of a negro man to a desk in the postoffice of that city adjoining the one occupied by a young white lady. Yes, we catch it here. In the Longstreet case few sympathize with the sufferer.

Gov. HILL, of New York, in a talk with an interviewer in New York city, since his return from his recent visit to the South, said: "In Virginia I saw the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. They are making an earnest and energetic and hopeful contest. It involves everything connected with their political life, and our best wishes go out to them." The Governor could have truthfully said the contest the democrats of Virginia are now making involves, not only everything connected with their "political life," but also everything connected with every moral and material interest of the State in which they reside.

MR. HISCOCK, a republican U. S. Senator from New York, made a speech in New York city last Tuesday night, in which, speaking of Governor Hill of that State, he said: "He is now in foreign—I mean Southern States." If the people of the North think the southern are foreign States, and treat them as such, they should not be at all surprised if the people of the South learn to deem themselves foreigners in this country and to act accordingly. But how any such idea obtains in the North, when the whole country depends upon the South for its favorable balance of trade and its low rate of foreign exchange, is hard to comprehend.

SENATORS Sherman and Farwell, and that other able protectionist, the New York Sun, are all in favor of free trade between this country and those of Central and South America. They are indisputably right. But if free trade with Central and South America would be beneficial to this country, why wouldn't it, not only be equally, but even more so, with Canada and with all the other foreign countries? What is true of a part is true of the whole. There is no sense in inviting foreign trade and paying bounties to ships engaged in such trade while a tariff exists that practically prohibits the importation of foreign products.

ACCORDING to the official account Fred Douglass's voyage and his arrival at Port au Prince as minister to Hayti, was remarkably tame. The Kearsarge, upon landing his precious freight, immediately turned about and came home, and the minister landed without ceremony. The Galena, the flagship of the squadron, was conveniently away, and there was no government, Hypocrite not having been inaugurated. Fred says he went to Hayti to study the problem of his own race. He will doubtless be enlightened.

It is understood that the new republican ticket, with John F. Lewis, of Rockingham, for Governor; Park Agnew, of Alexandria, for Lieutenant Governor, and C. A. Heermans, of Montgomery, for Attorney General, promulgated to quiet the consciences of those of the party who aver that they will not vote for Mahone, was an evolution from the brain of Hon. Lewis McKenzie, of this city, and is the outcome of a short incubation.

THE IDEA of sending the "tin ships," as the new cruisers are termed, to Europe for inspection, will probably be abandoned, as the superiority of the foreign naval forces would be too apparent wherever these new vessels would make their appearance; therefore it is proposed to send them to the Central and South American ports to impress those countries with proper awe and respect for this "mighty nation."

THE Protestant Episcopal Convention has altered the marriage service so as to make it read "in holy love" instead of "holy bonds of matrimony." All married couples are supposed to live in the bonds of matrimony—all do not live in the bonds of love.

THE STATE republican organizations in Washington are undertaking to dictate the political appointments to be made in the District, which interference is very properly resented by the people of the said District.

THE NEW YORK Sun says: "The most glorious flag that ever waved over this country is the banner of Jeffersonian democracy." True, and Jefferson favored a tax on whiskey, both as a revenue and a moral measure.

A SUBTERRANEAN river in France has been traced a distance of seven miles, when it takes an abrupt plunge into the bowels of the earth to an unfathomable depth. A subject for a novel by Haggard.

WASHINGTON is making a desperate effort to have the exposition of '92 held there. As the Capital of the country, and possessing all the requisites, Washington is the proper place.

A GRAND Army Post in Pennsylvania wishes to have a monument erected over some Confederate dead, at Gettysburg removed. On how they love us.

THEY ARE to have deaconesses in the Episcopal church. And they needn't be married either. And now wont they "flock" to the order.

THE Secretary of the Interior thinks the Interior Department building is entirely too small, and wants a larger one erected at once.

AN EXCHANGE very pithily and appropriately remarks in reference to the season, "Shut the doors."

It is reported that only one "happy couple" was divorced in Baltimore last week.

FROM WASHINGTON.

(Special Correspondence of the ALEX. GAZETTE.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25, 1889.

Congressman Burrows, of Michigan, who has been stumping for Gen. Mahone in Virginia, arrived here this morning from Fredericksburg, where he and General Mahone spoke last night. He says the only interruption to last night's meeting was made by a man who asked Gen. Mahone about his use of tissue ballots, and that the General shut him up by saying that the man who said or intimated that he, Mahone, had ever used, advised, or suggested the use of tissue ballots is a falsifier and the truth is not in him. Mr. Burrows says the General will certainly be elected, if not cheated in the count. A Virginia democrat who heard what Mr. Burrows said, remarked that with the direct and positive proof that Gen. Mahone had used tissue ballots when Hinton was his Congressional candidate, and already had them printed for use at the coming election, his denial thereof showed his possession of a phenomenal amount of effrontery.

There is no doubt of the fact that President Harrison is entirely out of accord with the managing and working element of his party. Not only are Senators Cameron, Quay, Cullem and Farwell in open revolt against him, but numerous other Senators, among them Senators Plumb, Manderson and Spooner. They say he is a monumental ingrate. It is stated that three-fourths of the appointments in Indiana were made, not only without the recommendation of, but even without consulting the republican members of Congress from that State. The open revolt is so extensive that it can not be told now who will be the President's representative in either branch of Congress, and already many of the President's appointees have been informed that their nominations will either be held up or rejected.

In the year 1773 Richard Arell and Eleanor, his wife, deeded to Rev. Dr. Thom and others of Alexandria, the lot on south Fairfax street, in that city, on which the 1st Presbyterian Church now stands, on which to build a Presbyterian meeting house, and to be used forever for the purposes of such a church. The Arell heirs, some of whom reside in this city, having heard that the building on the lot is no longer used for church purposes; that its pastor has resigned; that no successor has been called, and that the congregation has gone to another church, are making arrangements for instituting legal proceedings for the recovery of the property.

Intelligence here to-day from Ohio is to the effect that there will be seven thousand more white democratic, than white republican votes polled in that State, that the result of the election depends upon the negro vote thereof, that there is some threatened defection in the colored vote there, and that it is correct that defection that Langston, of Virginia, and Lynch, the negro auditor of the Treasury, have been sent there.

Congressman Cheadle, of Indiana, republican, is here to-day from a campaigning tour for General Mahone in Virginia. He says he has spoken in many places in that State and has never been treated at any of them with anything else than courtesy and even kindness. He says that so far as his experience goes, northern republican speakers receive as kind treatment in Virginia as southern democratic speakers would receive in the North. He says it seems to him that there is more enthusiasm among the republicans of Virginia than among the democrats. He also says that in Petersburg and in Notaway and Lunenburg counties there is some little negro defection at present, but that he thinks it will all be removed by election day, and that the negro vote of the State will be practically solid.

A well known sporting man of this city, a Virginian, who recently received a letter from Richmond telling him to take all bets that were offered on General Mahone's election, says he has diligently sought for bets on Mahone but can find none to take.

Democrats here to-day from Washington county, Va., and from the Danville district of that State, say the democratic organization is by no means as perfect in those sections as it might be, while the Mahonites have all their forces well in hand and will have every man at the polls. The following changes in the 4th class postoffice of Virginia were made to-day: Falmouth, Stafford county, Harry G. Lightner appointed postmaster, vice C. S. Helfin, removed; Lawrenceville, Brunswick county, Peyton H. Hall, vice W. F. Jones, resigned; Lynnhams, Northumberland county, James H. Dize, vice E. T. Kolly, deceased.

A lady claiming to be the wife of Captain Ward, was in the town recently making inquiries into Captain Ward's affairs. The impression obtains in the minds of a number of people, that Captain Ward's whereabouts are known to his friends, and that his disappearance was the result of a well concocted plan to escape his creditors.

Mr. R. F. Farr, a Mahonite, addressed the citizens of Carroll county at Hillsville Monday last, and at the conclusion of his speech the democratic chairman called a meeting and invited Judge Green to make a response. During Green's speech he said that Judge Nowlin, who was present, was there feasting on Mahone's money. Nowlin called Green a liar and struck him, whereupon Green reiterated the charge and knocked Nowlin down. Great excitement ensued, but order was restored, and Green concluded his speech amid the wildest enthusiasm.

Gov. Lee has just received the following letter from a prominent democrat of Bedford county, Pa.: "During the last two days while in Baltimore and Washington, I learned that negroes working on the railroad construction in New York and other States are going to Virginia to stay until after election. I fear very much that our friends there do not realize the desperate efforts making to elect Mahone. Col. Quay is undoubtedly engineering the campaign, and nothing will be left undone that money can do to win, so far as I see. Our national committee doesn't seem to grasp the importance of this election. Mahone's election now means trouble in 1892."

Mr. Thurman

CINCINNATI, Oct. 25.—Hon. Allen G. Thurman did not complete his speech at Music Hall last night, but was compelled on account of a failure of strength to stop suddenly. Putting his hands to his sides, he said: "I would like to have stated more to you, but I am unable to do it; I am getting sick." His last words were not distinctly heard, and as his son assisted him to a chair, there were few in the hall who knew that he had broken down. As soon as he was able to go he was taken to the hotel, where he could have rest. He regretted this infirmity very greatly, because, as he stated afterward, he had reserved for the closing part of his speech some good words for the democratic candidate for Governor. These he was prevented from uttering by the sudden weakness that came upon him.
